WHY ARE OUR SOLDIERS STILL DYING IN IRAQ?

Editorial

Summer 2004

A Fresh Start

The Blair crony Peter Mandelson, best known for fiddling his mortgage application, is to be Britain's new European commissioner. Mandelson, who twice resigned from government in disgrace, is a prime example of all that is wrong with the European Union. Overpaid, unaccountable and corrupt are all words that fit those who currently rule Europe.

The League of St George has always supported the concept devised by Sir Oswald Mosley of Europe a Nation, but this Europe does not reflect the vision of Mosley. Countries such as Cyprus and Malta have been included into Europe to suit somebody's hidden agenda. Political correctness, corruption, and incompetence were not part of Mosley's programme.

Perhaps the BNP and UKIP are right. Perhaps along with fellow European nationalists we need to dismantle and cleanse the existing diseased body. Then we can start again, building a Europe of the people, a Europe for the people,

Our Europe!

Racial Quotas

The police and the judiciary have been targeted by Britain's race relations industry as prime examples of occupations in which British born Asians and Blacks are under-represented.

But, what about the Armed forces? The last four British soldiers killed in Iraq were all White. Shouldn't the CRE investigate why Blacks and Asians seem so reluctant to fight and die for their country?

Family Values

The Labour Party expresses support for traditional family values at every election. So how embarrassed are Labour Party members over the news that the Labour Home Secretary David Blunkett has been involved in a long-running adulterous affair with a married woman?

The woman, New York born Kimberley Fortier lives with her husband and has one child. She is reportedly pregnant again but denies that the baby was fathered by Blunkett. Ms Fortier is rumoured to have ended the affair but not before the damage has been done to Labour and its family values. Perhaps she is too busy to continue the affair, as she works full-time as the publisher of the Tory supporting Spectator magazine and also serves on the steering committee of the London Jewish Community Centre?

Dead Soldier's Family Asks, "WHY ARE WE STILL IN IRAQ"?

As another young British soldier is killed fighting Blair's war in Iraq, more and more Britons are joining the soldier's grieving families in asking, WHY ARE WE STILL IN IRAQ?

In just three days in August, two British soldiers died in Iraq. In Basra Black Watch Infantryman, Marc Ferns was killed by a roadside bomb. Marc was 21 years-old. Three days earlier another British soldier, 20 year-old Lee O' Callaghan was shot in the chest by Iraqi gunmen. Iraqis resisting what they view as the illegal occupation of their country. Private O' Callaghan, an infantryman in the Princess of Wales regiment had been in occupied Iraq for just three months.

British Prime Minister, Tony Blair took our country into a war with Iraq, claiming that he had the support of the nation but Private O' Callaghan's grandparents would dispute this viewpoint. "I don't think we should have gone there in the first place - it was nothing to do with us. It's all about the government wanting to act big - they don't care if boys like Lee die" said Mr and Mrs Southgate, Lee's maternal grandparents.

Another family member said, my message to Tony Blair is "Why are we still in Iraq? Get the rest of the kids out".

Marc Fern's family were just as critical of Blair's sacrifice of our kids in a war that serves no interest to Britain.

"Why are we still in Iraq? Get the kids out!"

Marc's mother called on Blair to withdraw British troops from Iraq as soon as possible. She said, Get them home. They are a peace keeping force and are supposed to have handed over to Iraq's own forces. How many more? It is 64 now and I don't want it to go any higher". (It did)

Despite the efforts of the coalition's 1400 strong, Iraq Survey Group, no weapons of mass destruction have ever been found! No evidence that Iraq ever had any weapons of mass destruction has been found!

The Iraq Survey Group's former leader, David Kay resigned in March after telling the world's press that no chemical or biological weapons would ever be found, because there were none!

So why are British soldiers still dying in Iraq?

In the days leading up to the attack on Iraq, Blair also claimed that there were links between Iraq and Al-Qaeda terrorists. The American 9/11 commission investigated and rejected these claims. British and American intelligence experts have rejected these claims. Even sources within the new Iraqi government have confirmed that at no stage did Saddam Hussein's regime give support to, or harbour members of the Al-Qaeda terrorist group. In fact they regarded Al-Qaeda as an enemy and ruthlessly suppressed their supporters.

So why are British soldiers still dying in Iraq?

"Get them home. They are a peace keeping force and are supposed to have handed over to Iraq's own forces"

Another reason for fighting in Iraq was, we were told, to free ordinary Iraqis from the repressive regime of Saddam Hussein. So why are thousands of ordinary Iraqis fighting and killing coalition troops? Don't they know that Blair is only trying to liberate them?

So why are British soldiers still dying in Iraq?

There are no weapons of mass destruction, the country, the region and the world are not safer places to live in, the lives of an ordinary Iraqi is not better, so Mr Blair WHY ARE BRITISH SOLDIERS STILL DYING IN IRAQ?

The blood of our soldiers is on the hands of Blair and this Labour government and we must not allow them to forget it!

NEWS AROUND BRITAIN

1.23 Million Britons Vote Nationalist

The British establishment parties were severely shocked when almost one and a quarter million Britons voted for nationalist candidates in the recent European, London Assembly and local council elections.

The British National Party gained most of these by virtue of standing the most candidates. In the elections for the European parliament the BNP attracted an incredible 808,200 votes. In London, the BNP candidates for the Greater London Assembly and the London Mayoral elections polled a total of 219,506 votes, and in local council elections prospective BNP council candidates polled, 199,975 votes. Nationally, the BNP attracted 1,227,681 votes and increased its number of councillors by 4, up from 17 to 21.

The Freedom Party contested just three seats in Tipton, West Yorkshire and finished second behind the Labour party. But their combined vote of 2,872 was enough to defeat the Conservative, Liberal Democrat and BNP candidates.

The National Front had ten candidates in the local elections and polled a total of 3,687 votes. Ken Booth, the NF candidate for Newburn ward in Newcastle gained almost 15% of the vote and has announced that he will be standing in Newcastle as an NF candidate in the next General election.

The BNP has continued to build on its support in local council elections. Just one month after the regional council elections a BNP candidate inflicted a nasty shock in the Labour stronghold of Barking & Dagenham by finishing a close second in a by-election in Valence ward, polling 31% of the vote.

A BNP councillor has been appointed to his local council's Race Equality Group. Adrian Marsden, a BNP councillor representing the Calderdale area of Halifax, West Yorkshire is the first BNP councillor to gain an important post on a council committee. Predictably, ethnic groups, who have traditionally dominated this type of committee condemned the appointment and called for Councillor Marsden to be removed.

In a statement to the local press the BNP Councillor called for even more white representation on race committees to help achieve a balance.

SWP Gain Foothold in East London

The extremist, Socialist Workers Party gained their first ever East London council seat when they won a by-election in Tower Hamlets. Their candidate, Oliur Rahman, stood for the SWP's new electoral front Respect.

National Front Oppose Extremist Rally

London NF members successfully opposed a planned rally by the Muslim extremist group, Al-Muhajiroun to be held in London's Trafalgar Square. The NF gave notice to the police that would oppose the anti-British rally and fearing violence the police banned the event. Leaving nothing to chance, over 140 London NF members gathered in Trafalgar Square ready to challenge the extremists.

BNP Gain Another New Councillor From Tories

The British National Party gained another council seat when sitting Tory councillor; Roger Roberts resigned from the Conservative Party and joined the BNP. Councillor Roberts represents Hopton ward on Kirklees council in West Yorkshire and had been a member of the Conservative party for over 45 years. In a further blow to the Tories, Councillor Roberts had been the Chief Whip of the Tory group on Kirklees council. The BNP local organiser, Nick Cass told local press that he hoped that more local Tories would have the courage to leave the party and join the BNP.

Councillor Roberts's defection brings the total number of BNP councillors to 22.

Dominic Carman, son of the late libel lawyer, George Carman, is to write a biography of BNP leader, Nick Griffin. Carman revealed his project to the national press and promised to be objective rather than sympathetic. Mr Griffin, who is cooperating with the project, should be wary. Carman's previous book, "the Great Defender" a biography of his famous father, was criticised as being "ungenerous and cowardly" by leading literary critics.

Holocaust Lampshade May Be Offered For Sale!

A lampshade allegedly made from the human skin of a Holocaust victim may be put on open sale following the death of its owner. When artist, Robert Lenkiewicz died recently he left debts of over £2 million. The executors of his estate are now considering putting the lamp up for auction to pay off some of the debts. Mr Lenkiewicz's family are opposing the sale saying that the deceased's last wish was that the lampshade be buried in Plymouth's Jewish cemetery.

Mr Lenkiewicz's daughter claimed that her father had told her that the lampshade was made in the Auschwitz labour camp in 1940 from the human skin of a Jewish inmate, although the material has never been properly authenticated.

Experts at the Holocaust Educational Trust have cast doubts on the lampshade's authenticity. A spokesman said, "It has never been proved that Nazis made lampshades out of human skin". Thus debunking yet another myth about the Holocaust.

The editor of League Sentinel has suggested that the lampshade should be examined by experts as this would be the only way to throw any light on the subject!

Tesco To Export British Jobs

The Tesco supermarket group are the latest British company planning to sack British workers and export their jobs to India because of cheaper labour costs. The supermarket giant who boasted of profits of £1.6 billion last financial year, over £50 a second, have decided to sack 400 workers in their IT support and invoice processing centres in Dundee, Cardiff and Welwyn Garden City, Herts, and export the work to a purpose built centre in Bangalore. Other British companies who have exported British jobs abroad include, Abbey National, Aviva Insurance and Lloyds TSB bank.

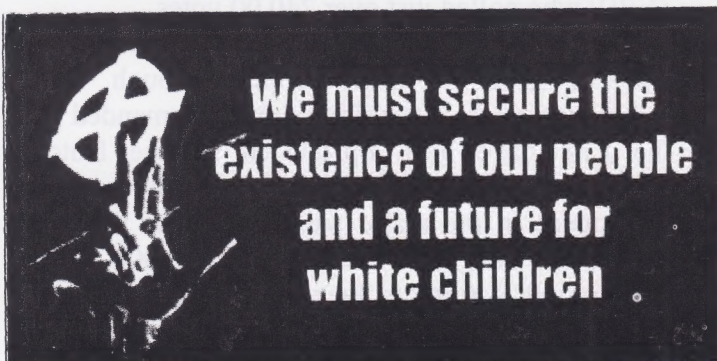

The White Nationalist Party Holds Its First London Meeting

The latter part of July saw the first ever meeting in London of the White Nationalist Party. A large audience listened to a selection of speakers including an old friend of the League of St George, WNP National Organiser, John Wood.

Guest speakers from Germany described how nationalist's human rights were being repressed by the German government who were more intent on giving rights to immigrants than ethnic Germans. He also revealed that the latest unemployment figures in Germany showed that a larger percentage of ethnic Germans were unemployed than immigrants. Mainly because of positive discrimination policies promoted by Germany's left-wing government.

The WNP's National Press Officer, Peter Rushton also spoke, using his speech to criticise the BNP leadership over their apparent willingness to allow non-Europeans to join the party. Finally, the National Activities Organiser, John O'Brien promised the audience that although this was the first London meeting it would not be their last. Plans were in place to form several branches of the party throughout the capital.

The WNP can be contacted by writing to... WNP. BM Box 5581, London. WC1N 3XX.

European Elections

Alessandra Mussolini Wins Seat in European Parliament

Nationalist groups on the European mainland had mixed results in the recent elections for the European parliament. In Italy, Benito Mussolini's grand-daughter, Alessandra, was one of the victors in the recent European elections in a campaign dominated by voter apathy and poor turnout.

In ITALY, the Alternativa Sociale, led by Alessandra Mussolini (pictured left) won 398,000 votes giving them their first ever Euro seat in Strasbourg.

Flamma Tricolore, an offshoot of MSI also won one seat but the best Italian performance came from the Alleanza Nazionale led by Gianfranco Fini who polled 3.7 million votes to win 9 seats in the new parliament.

In FRANCE, the Front National polled 1.7 million votes giving them 7 seats in the Euro parliament and their nationalist rivals, the Mouvement pour le France gained 6 seats after polling 1.1 million votes.

In DENMARK, the Danske Folkeparti held on to their 1 seat albeit with an increased majority.

There was disappointment in BELGIUM where the Flemish Vlaams Blok failed to gain a single seat despite polling almost one million votes. Their Walloon counterpart, the Belgian Front National also failed to win a seat with their 181,000 votes in the French speaking part of the country.

In GERMANY, despite attracting almost a half of a million votes the Republikaner Partei failed to win a seat, nor did their rivals, the Nationaldemokratische Partei Deutschlands (NPD) who polled just over 240,000 votes.

In the NETHERLANDS, List Pim Fortyn saw a massive drop in their support. Tough new measures against illegal immigration demanded by the LPF have been introduced by the Dutch government and now voters are having much more confidence in the major parties. Despite this the LPF still managed to attract over 120,000 votes and are still a force to be reckoned with in local and regional elections.

In AUSTRIA, Jorg Haider's Freiheitliche Partei Osterreichs (Freedom Party) also saw their vote diminish and only managed to retain 1 of their 4 Euro seats. This result went against the trend in local and regional results where support for the FPO seems to be growing.

The big winner in the Euro elections was undoubtedly the Liga Polskich Rodzin (League of Polish Families) which despite only being formed three years ago took 16% of the vote winning 15 out of the 54 seats allocated to free Poland in the new European parliament. The party has strong support from elements in the Catholic Church and is fiercely Euro sceptic, believing as Poland has only relatively recently managed to free herself from the evil shackles of Communism it should maintain a decent period of self-determination before embarking on a course which could lead to Polish identity being swallowed up by the EU.

The LPR (pictured above) also campaigned on an anti-immigration platform and urged Poles to embrace racial pride.

It is generally conceded parties advocating national identity doubled their representation in the new parliament and if united will become an important force in European politics.

150,000 Whites Flee London Every Year (and are replaced by ethnic minorities)

The Office for National Statistics have revealed that according to census returns more than 150,000 white families left London to live in the suburbs in the decade 1991 to 2001. But in the same period the population of London actually rose by 627,000 as hordes of ethnic minorities moved into the Capital.

In some London boroughs more than 10% of the population moved out, an exodus unparalleled in any other city in the country. This movement has been described as "White Flight" a phenomenon that swept cities in the US in the 1970's and led to the growth of deprived areas in major cities.

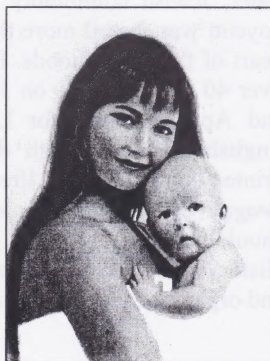

Overall, the white population of the capital dropped by seven percent, totalling some 400,000 people. The horrific by-products of multiculturalism, poverty, drugs, crime and political correctness, combined with poor schools, poor transport and the feeling that they were now the outsiders in their own country convinced white middle-class Londoners that their best interests lay outside of the capital.

The census also reveals the scale of the growth of ethnic minorities moving into London. In Wandsworth, one in 40 people living in the borough in 2001 had arrived from another country within the previous 12 months. In Westminster, the figure was one in 20! The ethnic population of London in 2001 was more than a quarter of the total population, some 2.2 million out of a total of 8 million. The White flight and the ethnic minority population growth has continued unabated in the three years since the census and it is now estimated that over one third of London's population is of ethnic origin and growing daily!

Many London boroughs have responded by using government funded housing associations to relocate ethnic minorities outside of the capital, into the suburbs, which in time will spiral into yet another White flight as multiculturalism contaminates more and more areas.

White Families Flee From Multi-cultural London

Blair Promises To Oppose Bid to Outlaw Ritual Slaughter

The Prime Minister, Tony Blair promised the Labour Friends of Israel that he would ignore any moves to outlaw the Shechitah method of animal slaughter used by Jews, despite large scale support within parliament for recommendations to outlaw the practice, made by the Farm Animals Welfare Council.

Government sources involved in the consultation process have already indicated that they are satisfied that "on balance, animals, especially cattle, slaughtered without pre-stunning are likely to experience very significant pain and distress".

Despite this, Blair promised the Jewish lobby group, "While it would not be right for me to pre-empt the outcome of the consultation process, I would like to make it clear that nothing will come out of the consultation that will threaten your religious rights and freedoms".

Blunkett Praises Jewish Para-Militaries

While Blair was promising to allow religious Jews the right to continue to inflict unnecessary pain on animals, his Home Secretary, David Blunkett was busy heaping praise on the sinister Jewish para-military group the Community Security Trust.

The Community Security Trust, which advertises "self-defence training" and "monitoring the community's enemies" courses for young Jews was praised by the Home Secretary for providing the Jewish community "security with sensitivity, creating an invisible wall around the community". The CST also provides bodyguards for the Chief Rabbi, the President of the Board of Deputies and various other dignitaries.

Blunkett was speaking at a CST fund raising dinner in Manchester and was accompanied by Bury South MP, Ivan Lewis.

As the general election looms closer it is expected that more Labour politicians will seek to court the Jewish community in a bid to secure desperately needed funding.

A Look Back At History

Ireland and Anti-Semitism

Between the late part of the 19th century and the early 1900s, Jews living in Russia had managed to make themselves extremely unpopular with the Tsar, the Church and the peasantry. Accusations of usury, ritual murder and being the killers of Christ boiled over into pogroms against the Jewish population. The publication of the secret minutes of a meeting allegedly held by powerful Jews to discuss world domination and known as The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion caused even more resentment. In 1903 over 3000 Jews were killed by the mob and the rest chose to flee to more hospitable lands.

One country chosen by the refugees was Ireland and in late 1903 some 150 Russian Jews arrived in Limerick. At this time the majority of the local inhabitants were extremely poor as Limerick was a garrison town and with many of the men serving away from home the women and children were left to provide for themselves as best they could. Work on the land was scarce and poorly paid, not that the new Jewish refugees intended to become farm labourers!

they bore away with them an unquenchable hatred for the name of Jesus Christ and his followers. The Jews came to Limerick apparently the most miserable tribe imaginable, with want on their faces. Now, they have enriched themselves and can boast of very considerable house property in the city. Their rags have been exchanged for silk. How do the Jews manage to make their money? Some of you may know their methods better than I do, but it is still my duty to expose these methods. They go about as peddlers from door to door, pretending to offer articles at very cheap prices, but in reality charging several times more than in the shops. They force themselves and their goods upon the people and the people are blind to their tricks".

To the semi-illiterate congregation the message was clear, and they took to the streets. A mob of some 200 attacked the Jewish sector of the city damaging property, breaking windows and pelting the Jewish occupants with mud.

Fortunately for Fr Creagh, neither the Board of Deputies or the race zealots of the CRE existed at that time, and he was able to continue his condemnation from the pulpit again the following Sunday.

This time Fr Creagh admonished the congregation for the use of violence. A better way of ending Jewish extortion he said was for the citizens of Limerick to boycott all Jewish commerce.

Society of the Sacred Heart

Protocols of Zion

Most applied for peddlers or moneylenders licences and travelled the countryside. By 1904 there were some 150 Jews settled in Limerick, and by all accounts they had prospered exceedingly well. But their prosperity, their ostentation and some of their business methods were fuelling resentment amongst the native Irish who were still extremely poor. In those times, the poor, uneducated farm labourers looked to the church, the local priest for help. Father John Creagh was not only the local priest, but also the spiritual director of one of the Catholic Church's most powerful sects, the Confraternity of the Sacred Heart. In short, Fr Creagh was a priest that people would take very seriously!

As complaints flooded in about shoddy goods and high interest rates, Fr Creagh addressed his congregation. From the pulpit of a packed church Fr Creagh condemned the Jewish newcomers.

"The Jews were once chosen by God. But they rejected Christ, they crucified him. They called down the curse of his precious blood on their heads. They were scattered over the earth and "Do not buy from Jews; do not sell to Jews and refuse to pay back loans that had usurious interest rates."

Fr Creagh's campaign was taken up by the local newspaper, the Limerick Leader and praised by local politicians such as Arthur Griffith, who would later form Sinn Féin.

Later, Jewish community leaders admitted that this tactic of boycott was feared more than violence, as it struck at the very heart of their livelihoods. But violence was to flare again with over 40 attacks made on Jews or their property during March and April. Support for Limerick's campaign spread to the English mainland, with dozens of letters of support being printed in The Times. Alfred Walmsley, of the left-wing British League of Brothers wrote suggesting that English workers should copy the initiative taken by the citizens of Limerick. History records that Comrade Walmsley actually went further, and organised an anti-Jewish riot in London's East End.

Continued: A Look Back at History: Ireland and Anti-Semitism

Back in Limerick, a leading figure in the Jewish community, Saul Goldberg took a delegation to see the Catholic Bishop, Dr Edward O'Dwyer. It was rumoured that gold changed hands, which persuaded Dr O'Dwyer to condemn the boycott and the anti-Jewish mobs.

But the Sacred Heart Confraternity refused to heed Dr O'Dwyer and passed the following resolution. "We tender to Fr Creagh our very best wishes on his recent lectures on the ways and means of Jewish trading and at this meeting representing 6000 members of the Confraternity we express our full confidence in his views".

The Mayor and the Corporation of Limerick also went on record declaring their support for Fr Creagh and his "campaign of truth". Their support for the campaign is best illustrated with the case of Rahilly.

Rahilly (Christian name not known) was a local youth arrested for throwing stones at a Rabbi. The court sentenced him to prison for one month. The Mayor and the Corporation raised a petition to the Lord Lieutenant for Rahilly's immediate release. The petition was rejected and Rahilly had to serve his month in Mountjoy prison but on his release he was presented with a gold watch and chain with thanks from the Mayor and Corporation of the city of Limerick.

The boycott was solid throughout Limerick and Jewish families began to leave. Most went to England. By October less than twenty Jews were left in the city.

The boycott was a unique event in the history of Ireland. A country where so much blood has been spilt over religious differences was able to resolve a problem without a single fatality.

Aussie Police Seek the "Wild Colonial Boy"

Since its foundation as a British penal colony, Australia has managed to produce some pretty colourful characters. Ned Kelly, Jack Duggan and Captain Moonlight are all figures from the past, but now the Aussie police have a new target, Jack van Tongeren.

Jack is the leader of the Australian Nationalist Movement which he founded in the late 1980s. A colourful character, Jack served in a combat unit during the Vietnam War. Jack's political career was interrupted when in 1990 he was convicted of 53 attacks on ethnic minorities, including the firebombing of several properties, and sentenced to 18 years in jail. During his incarceration Jack refused to participate in any of the establishment's rehabilitation programmes during his stay inside and was eventually released after 12 years in 2002, completely unrepentant. On his release Jack again entered the political fray pledging to defend the "Aussie way of life".

A new organisation was created, The Australian Nationalist Workers Union and leaflets and stickers began appearing on the streets of Perth bearing the ANWU's logo.

But when a spate of attacks on synagogues and Asian owned shops suddenly flared up, the police went hurrying to Jack's door. In a police interview Jack denied any knowledge of the attacks and condemned them. Five people were later arrested, and charged with the crimes.

Jack went on the counter offensive and issued a press release on video in which he accused several top Australian officials including the Prime Minister and the State Attorney-General, of encouraging the Asianisation of the country and the destruction of the Aussie way of life. Somewhat ominously he accused them of treason and warned that "they will be dealt with accordingly". Certainly Jim McGinty, the State Attorney-General took this as a threat, he cancelled a meeting and flew home "to protect his family". Again the police went hurrying to Jack's door, but this time they took a battering ram with them; but Jack had gone "walkabout".

A state-wide alert has been issued by the police looking for Jack van Tongeren, Australia's new "Wild Colonial Boy".

Estonia

Jewish Groups Protest over Estonian Waffen SS Memorial

European Jewish groups have protested to the Estonian government over the building of a memorial to Estonians who volunteered to fight in the Waffen-SS during the war.

The memorial, in the Estonian capital, Tallinn was erected by the Estonian Union of Freedom Fighters to commemorate the thousands of Estonians who enlisted to free their country from Soviet repression. The Union also organised a march by Estonian Waffen-SS veterans through Tallinn in July to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the struggle against Soviet occupation and the 10th anniversary of the final withdrawal of Russian troops from the country. The veterans also attended a church service to remember their fallen comrades. Most Estonians regard the SS veterans as freedom fighters who fought not for, but alongside the Germans in WW2. A smaller memorial has already existed in the city of Parnu since 2002. It features a soldier in Estonian SS uniform and bears the inscription "To all Estonian soldiers who died in the second war for the liberation of the fatherland and a free Europe in 1940-1945".

The Estonian Legion was formed in 1942 and in July 1943, at the battle of Andriivka, one Estonian battalion inflicted 7000 casualties on the Red Army, destroying 100 tanks in the process. Some 40 Iron Crosses were awarded to the battalion for acts of individual bravery. Estonia is one of the newest members of the European Union and several left-wing MEP's have supported the Jewish protests. But Leo Tammiksaar, spokesman for the Union of Freedom Fighters said, "Of course Europeans will not understand us; we made this monument for our soldiers, not for Brussels".

France

French Ban Israeli Prime Minister from Country

The French government has cancelled a visit from Israeli Prime Minister, Ariel Sharon after he condemned the French people as being anti-Semitic.

The French PM, Jacques Chirac informed the Israeli government that Sharon is not welcome in France following comments made by Sharon to a militant group of American Jews visiting Jerusalem, "that Jews from all over the world should relocate to Israel as early as possible, but French Jews must come immediately as we see the spread of the wildest anti-Semitism in France".

The French foreign ministry conceded that attacks on Jews and their property had doubled in the past 12 months but stressed that the police were doing all that they could to stem the tide of attacks. Militant French Muslims are being blamed for many of the attacks.

A French woman has been prosecuted after she falsely claimed that she had been the victim of an anti-Semitic attack. The woman, whose identity is being protected at the moment, claimed that she was attacked by six men on a Paris train, who accused her of being Jewish, and then pushed her and her child on to the floor, cut her hair with a knife and drew swastikas on her stomach. She admitted lying about the attack after CCTV footage showed her train journey was uneventful.

Jewish Extremist Faces Bomb Plot Trial

A member of the extremist Jewish Defence League is to face trail for plotting to bomb Arab targets in the United States.

Earl Krugel, a senior member of the JDL was arrested with its then leader, Irv Rubin in November 2001. Explosives and bomb making equipment was seized at their homes by FBI agents. An undercover operation by the FBI including secret recordings of Rubin and Krugel led to charges of conspiring to bomb a Los Angeles mosque, and the home of a US Congressman of Arab origin.

Irv Rubin committed suicide whilst on remand in prison.

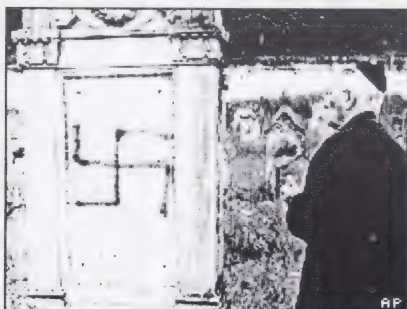

Krugel had hoped to benefit by plea bargaining, agreeing to plead guilty to a lesser charge of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Arab-Americans, but US District Judge Ronald Lew ruled that Krugel had broken the plea-bargaining conditions and must now face a full trial on the original charges. The sentence for the lesser charge is up to 20 years in prison, while Krugel now faces up to 55 years if found guilty.

Germany

Munich Rejects Holocaust Memorials

German Jews are divided over the decision by Munich City Council to refuse permission for brass plaques bearing the name of someone who died in a Concentration camp to be set into the pavement outside where they used to live. The plaques, termed "stumbling blocks" are four inches square and are the brainchild of artist Gunter Demnig. The City council refused permission after representation from local Jewish groups who complained that the memorials would be easily desecrated by "neo-Nazis wiping the dirt from their boots".

Mr Demnig said plaques were also planned for Austria, France and Belgium.

Over 50 Jewish graves were desecrated when vandals attacked the main Jewish cemetery in Dusseldorf. Swastikas and SS symbols were found painted on gravestones. Police are investigating.

United States

Kerry Sends His Brother to Israel to Gain Support

The Democratic Party's Presidential candidate, John Kerry has sent his brother Cameron on a delicate political mission to Israel with instructions to convince influential Jews that John Kerry, if elected, would be the most pro-Israeli US President ever. During the planned trip Cameron Kerry will meet senior members of the Israeli parliament, but has no plans to meet either peace activists or members of the Palestinian community.

The Kerry family were originally practicing Jews named Kohn, but changed their name to Kerry when they arrived in the US as refugees from Eastern Europe. John Kerry is a Catholic but his brother converted to Judaism some years ago. Recently John Kerry revealed that his eldest son is also planning to convert to Judaism.

Uproar as New Zealand Jails Israeli Spies

"The New Zealand government views the act carried out by the Israeli intelligence agents as not only utterly unacceptable ... but also a breach of New Zealand sovereignty and international law." This was the message from New Zealand's Prime Minister Helen Clark following the jailing of two members of the Israeli intelligence agency MOSSAD for attempting to obtain New Zealand passports illegally.

Helen Clark's comments came after two men, Elisha Cara and Uriel Kelman, both Israeli citizens, were jailed for six months for attempting to obtain a passport in the name of a New Zealand national who is a cerebral palsy victim, confined in a wheelchair. The men were also fined NZ$50,000. Two other Israelis, also suspected of being accomplices from MOSSAD are still being sought by the police. New Zealand police and intelligence sources also revealed that they believed that this was not an isolated incident and that MOSSAD had sought to acquire as many authentic passports as possible in a long-term operation.

Ms Clark also imposed diplomatic sanctions on Israel including the banning of government visits to Israel and banning visits from Israel by Israeli officials. A planned visit from the Israeli President, Moshe Katsav has been cancelled, as has the appointment of a new Israeli ambassador to New Zealand.

The Israeli authorities denied that the men were working for MOSSAD and claimed that they were common criminals but, neither Helen Clark (pictured right) nor her Foreign Minister Phil Goff accepted Israel's explanation. Ms Clark was quoted as saying, "I am convinced that the two were operating on behalf of the intelligence services of Israel". In an equally strong statement Mr Goff said, "If the Israelis want to improve relations then they must apologise for the passport affair, admit responsibility, explain the actions of their agents and offer assurances that it would not commit a similar act in the future".

Some members of the Israeli parliament, the Knesset, have demanded that Israel holds a full investigation into the incident and makes a full and frank apology to New Zealand.

The incident is viewed by MOSSAD's critics within Israel as just another in a long line of embarrassing failures by the intelligence service. Some have gone as far as demanding that the service be monitored by a panel of Knesset members.

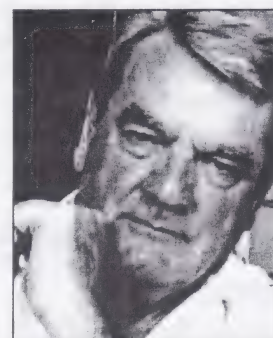

In a strange coincidence, sixteen graves in a Jewish cemetery in Wellington were vandalised just hours after the MOSSAD agents were jailed. Swastikas were alleged to have been cut into a lawn and the words "Seig Heil" scratched into gravestones. Some gravestones had been smashed.

Jewish community leaders immediately claimed that the desecration was linked to the passport case but Prime Minister Clark commented that she was not convinced that "there was an open and shut case linking the jailing of Israeli spies to the vandalism".

Some cynics in the New Zealand media suggested that it was extraordinarily convenient that an act which would normally gain sympathy for the Jewish community was so timely.

The New Zealand immigration service has decided to ban British historian David Irving from entering the country. This despite the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary stating that they could see no objection to Mr Irving's visit. Mr Irving, (pictured right) who promised to travel on his own passport has been invited to give a lecture at the National Press Club in Wellington. The banning order has been imposed because under New Zealand law anybody who has been banned from another country is automatically banned from entering New Zealand. At least, that is what they are saying, but, a national newspaper has established that the immigration service allowed 34 people to enter the country last year who should have been denied entry under the same law.

There is likely to be an appeal against the banning order which was condemned as an infringement on free speech by Keith Locke, a Green Party MP.

Labour Caught Lying Over Asylum and Immigration Figures

The Labour government's figures on the number of Asylum seekers and illegal immigrants currently in Britain have been exposed as lies by both Home Office officials and a police officer.

The lies were exposed when Robert Owen a Home Office official seconded to the National Criminal Intelligence Service was forced to give evidence against three Chinese accused of people trafficking.

Mr Owen told the court that most of his information was highly classified but he could reveal that the government claimed that there were only about 8000 Chinese people, legally and illegally living in Manchester. But the Home Office had figures supplied by the local Chinese Immigrants Welfare Association suggesting that the real figure is between 40,000 and 50,000!

Mr Owen also told the court that at one stage there were 1000 people a day arriving a terminal 3 of Heathrow Airport claiming asylum, and there was no serious arrangements to send them back.

The total number of bogus asylum seekers and illegal immigrants hiding in Britain is estimated to be in the region of 4 million, roughly six times the figure that Labour admits.

1000 asylum seekers arriving at Heathrow airport every day!

The next shock came via a police officer attending a meeting of Medway Council in Kent. The council is made up of representatives from Rochester, Gillingham and Chatham, all towns that have born the brunt of illegal immigration because of their close proximity to Dover. The council's public relations officer reported to the meeting that there were only 293 asylum seekers living in the Medway towns, not the thousands perceived by the public and despite local rumours linking asylum seekers with lawlessness, they actually caused no major problems. In fact, only six complaints had been made to the police about their behaviour.

The came the turn of the police liaison officer, WPC Caroline Pope to give her report!

She stated that all the figures given to the council by their public relations officer were false!

Instead of 293 asylum seekers living in the area, there were in fact almost 2000!

The assertion that there had only been six complaints made about the behaviour of local asylum seekers was false!

WPC Pope revealed that at least six complaints were made each week, and in the past two years asylum seekers had been involved in five stabbings, a firearms incident, several rapes and one murder!

She reported that even the local, Pentagon shopping centre in Chatham town centre had become a no-go area for unaccompanied women shoppers because of harassment by young male asylum seekers.

Pentagon Shopping Centre

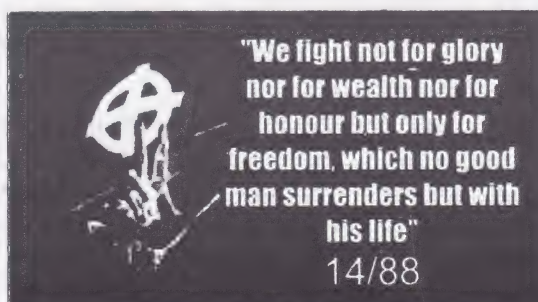

Finally, the WPC stunned the Councillors by stating that far from settling into the local community as was the picture presented by the council, asylum seekers had split into ethnic gangs and were in a more or less permanent state of warfare between the various ethnic groups!

Shopping centre has become a no-go area for unaccompanied women

Kent police later issued a statement supporting WPC Pope's report!

The Labour party has existed for some years on a diet of lies and more lies. The government lies to the people on immigration and asylum, and local councillors lie to their constituents about the scale of the problem.

In the meantime illegal immigration and bogus asylum seekers are changing the face of our country, possibly forever!

OBITUARY

It was with great sadness that we learned of the death on August 26th of

John Warburton

John Warburton was born on April 30th 1919 in Bury, Lancashire. His father, a blacksmith died when John was just 13. A year later, John and his brother Ned attended a public meeting at Belle Vue, Manchester held by the British Union of Fascists and at that young age John's life changed. He and his brother both joined the British Union Cadets and entered the political arena. It wasn't long before young John and his brother discovered just how tough the political arena could be. A few months after joining the BUF the young activists attended a march and rally in Stockton on Tees. As just 100 Fascists faced down a crowd of 10,000 anti-Fascists, a brave Communist blinded Ned Warburton in one eye with a potato imbedded with razor blades. This horrific incident did only serve to strengthen the brothers determination to fight for Fascism. In 1936 the family moved to South London and John transferred to the BUF's Clapham branch. Although still only 17 John took part in the "Battle of Cable Street" and also attended the BUF rally in Limehouse where 100,000 East-Enders greeted Mosley with cries of "Hail Mosley". Throughout the next couple of years John was present at almost every BUF event in London. Although a fervent supporter of Mosley's "Peace with Honour" campaign which sought to avoid confrontation with Germany, John volunteered for the army in July 1939. When peace returned John entered Civvy Street as a photo-journalist. Almost simultaneously he joined Mosley's newly-formed Union Movement. In UM John served on many committees and his energy and enthusiasm was an example to all. Following the death of Mosley, John met with a small group of supporters in a London pub and formed the Friends of Oswald Mosley (FOM) to assist the political work of Union Movement and maintain social contact with veteran members. As FOM expanded it became an important source of factual information for students and academics. FOM organised regular social events as well as an annual dinner which was honoured with the attendance of Lady Mosley on more than one occasion. John also founded and edited FOM's newsletter, COMRADE which will be his legacy for future generations. For John, the battle is over but, as the saying goes ...
